A $55,000 gift from Samuel Goldwyn, founder and first president of Motion Picture Permanent Charities, highlighted the MPPC's 25th annual kickoff luncheon at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

The check from Goldwyn was accepted by Raymond Burr, MPPC campaign chairman, who recounted the veteran producer's generosity to MPPC for the past 25 years. Goldwyn's annual contribution to MPPC is $30,000 or more and in 1956 he donated the property and building which currently houses the film charity unit.

The Silver Anniversary Campaign is dedicated to Goldwyn and Y. Frank Freeman, a past president active in the organization since its inception. He has been chairman of innumerable MPPC committees, particularly those dealing with the solicitation of top bracket donors in the industry.

Both men are honorary life members of MPPC, the only industry leaders to be so honored.

Present at the luncheon were:
- A past campaign chairman and former board member of Permanent Charities, Steve Broidy.
- The Vice-President, West Coast, of N.B.C., Thomas W. Sarnoff.
- Vice-President of Columbia Pictures Corporation and a past campaign chairman of Permanent Charities, Gordon Stulberg; from the Directors Guild of America, a past president of Permanent Charities, Don Weis; Vice-President and Treasurer of MCA, Inc., and a past campaign chairman of Permanent Charities, Albert A. Dorskind; immediate past president and Permanent Charities board member representing the Screen Producers Guild, Frank McCarthy.
- Vice-President in charge of production, Paramount Pictures Corp., Howard Koch; international vice-president of I.A.T.S.E. and incumbent vice-president of Permanent Charities, George Flaherty.
- The secretary of Permanent Charities and board member representing Allied Industries, Sidney P. Solow.
- The vice-president in charge of production, 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., Richard L. Zanuck.

To Our Contributors:

This year the Motion Picture Permanent Charities Committee celebrates its 25th Anniversary of community service. It was, at the time of its founding by Samuel Goldwyn, the first organization in the nation to function for an entire industry in raising funds to help maintain worthy health and welfare causes throughout its home community.

Since then it has served as a model for many other industries from coast to coast.

In 1951, because of the fluctuating employment indigenous to our industry, the simplified "Fair Plan" was put into effect, enabling donors to pledge a percentage of their earnings, deductible from their pay checks, rather than stipulated dollar amounts. Participation in this plan assures that you give only when you are working. This eliminates the possibility of a previously-made pledge falling due at a time when the donor might be out of work and unable to meet the obligation.

Today, on our Silver Anniversary, more than 18,000 members of the theatrical motion picture, television film and allied industries are helping to meet the vital needs of the less fortunate members of their community, through payroll deductions. Your contributions help maintain 19 major charitable organizations, of which one of these — The United Crusade — itself services 260 separate charities. No comparable organization offers its contributing members the opportunity to do so much for so many.

It is a record of community service in which we, as citizens of our community, can all take pride.

We are grateful to you of the industry who make it possible.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES . . . You're Invited to Join the Universal Inn Studio Club.

We are pleased to extend to you an invitation to join us as a member of the U.I. Studio Club.

As you have no doubt heard, the Club will be limited in its membership and exclusive to members and their friends in the entertainment industry.

An ideal hide-a-way for luncheon and as a social club, it is a place where members can fully relax and enjoy the luxury of private club privileges and companionship.

In addition to being equipped with card room, pool tables, color T.V. and Scopitone, the club will sponsor golf tournaments twice yearly, group sports outings and monthly get-acquainted dances.

Since the Club is a physical part of the Universal Studio Motor Inn, members have first priority for out-of-town guest reservations or "emergency" reservations for their own needs at special rates. (Surely "Ones Club" is the obvious and logical substitute for the "doghouse.")

Again, membership is limited, and no charter memberships will be available after the club opens, so we urge you to act promptly to insure your name on the roster.

There's a new friendly atmosphere at the Inn, plus the new improved service and management . . . the Coffee shop is open twenty-four hours, the dining room and cocktail lounge in quiet tasteful decor where it is a pleasure to stop in any time of the day or evening . . . a top chef serving the finest of foods, new banquet rooms now seating 600 and preparations under way for a total capacity of 1,500. On all three nights from 7 o'clock on, a full-course Prime Rib dinner, Hors d'oeuvres and Champagne cocktail, including dancing and entertainment, will be featured ($7.50 person).

The new owners of the Inn are Art K. Moss and John J. Shilling, operators of the Restaurant; Cocktail Lounge & Studio Club, Bill and Bob Hedderly. All have had a diversified background in the Entertainment, business and Restaurant fields. Barbara Arnold is manager of the Motor Inn.

ABOUT ART K. MOSS

If anyone had told Art Moss 20 years ago he'd be a park manager, it wouldn't have surprised him a bit. Most of his adult life has been involved in entertainment promotions—separating the public from its spending money while giving it a whale of a good time. Freedomland took a different approach but the aim was the same. Being executive vice-president and manager of the huge New York fun center didn't faze the one-time assistant cameraman.

He makes up in energy what he might lack in size, packs away a steak dinner easily, goes for home-cooked Latin foods, takes a horseback canter when possible, joins in polite drinking and busts out with hearty laughter when there aren't too many people around. Aged 47 (coming up, Aug. 12), he was born and raised in Los Angeles, got an early exposure to Hollywood when, at 13, he worked for the 20th Century-Fox predecessor, William Fox Films. In 1936 he drifted into public relations work and that shaped his future.

With Monte Proser as a partner he operated the La Conga night club, also handled publicity for Ciro's and the Trocadero. In 1941 he and Proser were in New York, promoting a big "dance carnival" in Madison Square Garden. "What a big thing," he marvels, "with Hollywood stars, three top bands, tropical decor—we did 30,000 dancers at $1.50 apiece, opening night." Two weeks later the operation petered out. They got not a line in the papers over their opening: Rudolph Hess defected to Britain that night and the newspapers could see nothing else.

"I love people. With movies and night clubs, I loved them. You have to, if you're to cater to the public. Now, Moss faces the future with the same enthusiasm: The new Studio Motor Hotel & Plaza. It's sure to be a winner!"

ABOUT JOHN J. SHILLING

Former home, Salt Lake City, Utah, he holds a B.S. Degree Mechanical Engineering, University of Utah, Advanced Degree-Aerological Engineering, Graduate School-United States Naval Academy. He now resides at 2835 Davenport Road, San Marino.

From 1941-1943 he was Assistant Supervisor Industrial Relations, Columbia Steel Company; from 1943-1946 United States Navy-Lieutenant Commander. The next eleven years he was Home Life Insurance Company-Manager Los Angeles office.

of perfection that has become their standard and their reputation.

Over a year ago they began to sense the need for better, faster, more individual service for muffler and shock absorber customers. This was when they started thinking about opening their own shop to provide this needed kind of individual attention. They reasoned that offering custom service, top quality brands, and a competitive price should be a sound platform for building a successful business. Tommy Prendergast explained that “most car owners don’t have a high degree of skill and knowledge about automobiles maintenance, so they want to be able to rely on and put their complete confidence in service people with integrity and skill, who are willing to give them reliable counsel and individual attention.”

In line with their custom service philosophy, Tommy and Blaise are featuring 15 minute installation of mufflers and shocks as well as free pick-up and delivery, and they’re open evenings by appointment.
Property Handles Everything From Antler to Zither

When it comes to filling the orders for props to dress a set for Walt's yearly quota of movies and TV shows, or the ever-changing Disneyland scene, there is no request too small, or tall, or too staggering for that matter, that the Studio's general store-like Property Department cannot handle.

If, on rare occasions, a desired item is not stocked among the 50,000-odd pieces on hand, from A, as in antler's horns, fresh from use in The Gnomobile, to Z, for zither, sent to the Park for display in The Pirates of the Caribbean adventure ride, it is hunted down by head man Barney Rogers and his team of sleuths among the many rental houses. If a search comes to nought, then it is simply produced by one of the skilled artisans in the department or at WED.

Nothing fazes Barney, who has been custodian for Disney's objets d'art, as part of Emile Kuri's set decorating unit, for a dozen years. Before that he served in the same capacity for 21 years at Paramount, managing to please no less a personage than Cecil B. deMille himself.

The smallest item Property has ever had to produce was a rare little volume of the collected autobiographical writings of Benjamin Franklin's wee apprentice, Amos Mouse, for Walt to nimbly leaf through during the lead-in to the television show, Ben and Me.

"The tome was all of an inch and a half long," says Barney. "You can imagine the time we had getting that little bit together."

King Brian's throne for Darby O'Gill and the Little People, strangely enough, proved to be the biggest, due to the kind of camera hocus-pocus Walt was obliged to use in this famous production. The thing ran 25 feet high and ten wide.

Part and parcel of handling inanimate props is the no-small-task of obtaining the proper kinds of more or less domesticated animals, from Spike in Old Yeller to the chimps in Lt. Robin Crusoe, U.S.N. and Monkeys, Go Home. And don't forget a host of other dogs and cats, plus the large cast of hayburners set up for Willie and the Yank and Gallegher Goes West.

Property took on the role of a modern day Noah during the production of Swiss Family Robinson in the West Indies, his toughest job to date, when he had to scout all over the U.S. and assemble at New Orleans a veritable zoo of tigers, zebras, monkeys, hyenas, Great Danes, ostriches, an elephant and a Galapagos' turtle for round-trip shipment in special pressurized cargo planes to the hot little island of Tobago.

Fred Flintstone, latest star to jump on the secret agent bandwagon, unlike his predecessors, will have his daring adventures set to music and lyrics in Hanna-Barbera's feature film based on television's most popular Stone Age hero. "The Man Called Flintstone" represents the efforts of many individuals. Musically speaking, however, there are two gentlemen responsible for the seven songs which will illustrate the exciting exploits of "our hero" fearless Fred, his wife Wilma, his daughter, Pebbles and his next door neighbors, Barney and Betty Rubble and their son, Bamm-Bamm, as they wend their way through Europe pursued by the world's most fiendish international spy, the Green Goose.

John McCarthy and Doug Goodwin are not typical of musical collaborators, the reason being they both write music and lyrics. Their first reaction to working together was—"I thought I needed him like a hole in the head."

Nine weeks and seven songs later, they had become fast friends, and now plan to co-author several television scripts for Hanna-Barbera. Originally there were to be six songs penned for "The Man Called Flintstone" feature. Doug and John were each to write three songs. A seventh was added after Bill Hanna and Joe Barbera listened to the first six.

TRICKS OF THE TRADE

When you see Universal's "The Appaloosa," starring Marlon Brando, you'll notice some camera angles which might seem a bit unusual. You might be carried right through a door or window with the camera, you might be looking straight up from the ground or even from in or under the water. The one who devised the shots is Furie, one of Hollywood's "new wave" directors who leans on handheld cameras for impact.

"We’ve both heard a lot of songs in our day," offered the world’s most successful team of cartoon productions, “but never such a fresh, exciting and original score. We felt we had to squeeze in one more song.”

The theme from the movie, aptly titled “The Man From Flintstone,” is a jazz-waltz take-off on “Goldfinger.” Starting with a chase scene, the film keeps building with one put-on after another.

Doug and John, who are free-lance song writers, were commissioned to write each song for a specific location and bit of action in the screenplay. They were shown some storyboards, given a few suggested titles and took it from there.

In addition to the tune, they also wrote a friendship song (“every show has one, and being original on this one was a real toughy”) entitled “Team Mates.” “Spy Type Guy” spoofs the entire network of secret-type agents in a tango beat.

“The Happy Sounds of Paree” finds the Flintstone family and friends touring Paris totally unaware that bullets, bombs and other little baubles of destruction are just missing their car.

The romance of Italy permeates the stone heart of usually undemonstrative Fred and he sings a beautiful love song to his wife, “Pensate Amore,” English translation being—‘think love.’

According to Doug and John, since neither of them speak Italian, they spent a week with their noses in every Italian-English dictionary on the market, getting steeped in Italian. "In a flash of inspiration, we came up with the title," remembers John. "Fifteen minutes later, we had the entire song with lyrics down on paper."

“When I Am Grown Up” is described as a kid’s song with a message by the two music makers.

“Tickle, Toddle” the seventh and added song, is a wish song. The lyric is a catchy little rhyme,

“Tickle, toddler, noddle, Toddle la belle and a Shoe”
These are the magical words I say
When I want a wish to come true.

John McCarthy and Doug Goodwin are singing that tune loud and long these days. If their wish comes true, “The Man Called Flintstone” will enter the ranks of cartoon classics to be revived for the next umpteen years with their songs and lyrics on the lips of millions ‘round the world.

THE latest expression in Hollywood is "Horse and Buggy"—meaning a girl with long hair.

Wallace MacDonald goes on record as the first motion actor to refuse to enact a villain role while wearing the uniform of a soldier in the U. S. Army.

Irene Rich has entirely recovered from her recent operation for the removal of her tonsils.

Walter Hiers has just signed to make a new group of two-reelers for Christie.

Marian Nixon was selected as "mascot" for seventeen Tennessee movie houses. Miss Nixon, by the way, has just signed a five-year contract with Universal.

Duane Thompson is among the first of the 1925 Wampas Baby Stars to win a big role. She is Charles Ray's leading lady in "Some Pun'kins."

During the filming of "The Golden Cocoon"—which has a boarding house setting, the following "rules" were placed on the dining table in one of the sequences:
- Every man for himself.
- The longest reach gets the best service.
- Sharp elbows must be padded.
- Meals R. S. V. P.—Rush in, sit down, victual up and pass out.

"Away with corsets," says Evelyn Brent, who was recently elected chairman of the "No-corset-never-Club," formed to do away with that perilous apparel.

On top of this comes Louise Fazenda's admission that she wears 'em.

Lilyan Tashman has startled Hollywood by recommending that all blondes with vampire ambitions bob their hair. One of the screen's most successful sirens, she says long hair looks too innocent to contribute to successful vampire portrayals.

The oldest film fan in California and Marian Nixon, one of the youngest leading ladies in motion pictures, recently met, exchanged sallies and became friends.

The fan is Eliza Schultz, almost 100 years of age. Miss Nixon met her while on location near Lone Pine, a town in Owens Valley, California. Miss Schultz, despite her age, enjoys flapper pictures and Westerns.

Rudolph Valentino's first United Artists production will be "The Bronze Collar," a romantic story of California in the days of Spanish rule.

The Valentino medal for screen acting has been awarded to John Barrymore, star of "Beau Brummel." Norma Talmadge ran a phenomenal race, being second.

Norman McLeod, the chap who draws the funny little figures which augment the titles of the Christie comedies has been signed for another year by Christies.

"Snap it up, you big goof! Show a little life! Act like you know what it's all about."

These virile admonitions were being hurled at a discouraged looking "Private" in a company of extras being put through the manual of arms on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot.

"Why do you ride that particular man so hard?" some one asked the tall drill-master who was playing a bit in Director King Vidor's picture "The Big Parade," now being made, in which John Gilbert and Renee Adores are featured.

"Well," said the man who was drilling the perspiring crew. "That guy used to be my top sergeant in the army and I was just a buck private in the rear rank."

One of the most elaborate and beautiful scenes ever filmed is to be "shot" for the Hobart Henley production, "Nothing to Wear," now in the process of production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. It is the Cinderella Ball—a vision of the heroine Katherine, played by Norma Shearer. The ball is to be photographed in color.

The ladies in waiting are to wear wigs of pale blue, shell pink, orchid and Nile green matching their gowns which are to be bouffant model and made of the richest of silks and satins.

An intensive course in cigarette smoking was given Estelle Clark to enable her to play the role of Mayme in Hobart Henley's production of "Nothing to Wear" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Miss Clark has never indulged in the increasingly popular vogue of feminine "smokes."

Can you tell when you are failing to talk interestingly? Lack of this sense has taken success from hundreds who both talk and write, according to Cecil De Mille on whom torrents of words have been flooded in an effort to "sell" stories and other propositions to the cinema.

"If a writer telling me his story can't make his story so interesting that I will forget to fill and light my pipe," says De Mille, "the story won't interest the public.

"David Belasco has perhaps the best of all tests as to whether a story would bore the general public, its ultimate consumer. He hears all plays sitting atop a six-foot stepladder. He is so acutely uncomfortable that if the playwright can keep him from wriggling—it's a great play. I've thought of introducing this plan into my own affairs.

Cecil B. DeMille has now completed his new organization. He has signed Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque, Jetta Goudal, Vera Reynolds, Robert Edeson, Lillian Rich, Robert Ames, Edmund Burns and Helene Sullivan.

Marie Prevost and Kenneth Harlan have started work on "Bobbed Hair," at the Warner Bros. studio. This is the first picture they have appeared in together since they first met. Incidentally, it was in this first picture that they became acquainted, appearing then as a young married couple that resulted in their later marriage.

STUDIO MAGAZINE:
I just had to write after reading "The Early Days of Hollywood" by Billy Parcher in your last issue of "Studio."
I'm enclosing a brochure of my last book "Splinters from Hollywood Tripods."
It emphasizes the fact that I'm an old-timer, coming to Hollywood in 1908. I personally knew Paul DeLongpre, the Gowers, the Tafts, Wilsons, and many others. I recently was reminded of those days by "Budge" Taft. We attended church together in the church that occupied the present site of the Taft building. I could write a book on "Early Hollywood."

Sincerely,
"Virg" Miller

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
Virgil E. Miller was born in 1886 in Illinois, and was graduated in 1912 with degrees in electrical engineering from Kansas State University, where he became a member of the faculty. After teaching for one year, he went to Hollywood, establishing the first Electrical Department for Universal in 1913. Subsequently he worked as a cameraman for every major studio and became head of both Paramount's Camera Department and Selznick's. Besides filming more than four hundred feature productions, he has traveled around the world photographing sixty-two FitzPatrick Travel-talks. He now lives with his wife, Betty, in North Hollywood. He is the father of four sons by a previous marriage.

Harold Shumate, short story writer and scenarist, has just completed a busy month. During April he wrote two original stories for Universal and wrote both continuities. The first was called Red Dawn and will be used as a starring vehicle for Art Acord while the second was titled The Moccasin Flower. The latter story will be used to introduce Miss Josie Sedgwick as a full fledged feature star. Mr. Shumate is now hard at work on a second story for Miss Sedgwick.

"Do you find it difficult," we asked, "to fashion a western story for a woman star?"

Mr. Shumate nodded. "I'll tell the cock-eyed world," was the inelegant and unliterary reply. "Universal is making a female Tom Mix out of Josie Sedgwick and I had many difficulties until I hit upon the plan of writing a story for a man lead and, in the end, naming him Mary."

A new group of bathing girls has been assembled by Mack Sennett to frolic through his comedies for the next few months. Miss Gladys Rousseau, chief designer of the studio wardrobe, is sitting up nights thinking out clever designs for Spring bathing costumes.

The girls so far selected include Lillian Knight, Evelyn Francisco, Lois Boyd, Marion MacDonald, Della Peterson, Dolores Mendez, Louise Loftus, Julia Duncan and Carol Wines.

A lot of men, unfortunately, don't care what kind of shirts they wear as long as they have buttons. This is regrettable because a shirt doesn't have to be a uniform. In fact, nothing contributes so much to a man's individuality and comfort than custom made shirts.

Don't let the words "custom made" intimidate you. We're old fashioned craftsmen who don't go in for fancy fixtures in our establishment. We love to make beautiful shirts because that's the only way we know how. If you respect honest craftsmanship, beautiful fabrics and fair prices, you owe it to yourself to pay us a visit. You're in for a wonderful experience.
